Lasting Word

Changeless things get short changed in a world that demands change, a world that insists and depends upon contemporary culture and adjustments that shovel away truths as old as dirt. The Bible—God’s word and God’s Word—are not exempt from this pressure. Nor do its promises or warranties ever expire in the hearts and souls of believers.

The Word said so Himself, so it must be true:

Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away (Matthew 24:35).

Of course, those who believe and teach that truth is relative will endeavor to find ways to disapprove the authority and authenticity of Scripture (and even refuse to use upper case letters when appropriate)! God’s Word is long-lasting and guaranteed to work. Without changes to alter its outcomes. Or compliant with Satan’s editorial skills, literary talents, or academic accomplishments.

Long lasting. Law and Gospel. Everything you need to know about life and death. True and dependable from In the beginning to I am coming soon...the grace of the Lord Jesus be with all.

Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever (Hebrews 13:8).

Question for consideration and prayer: Share your practices in keeping the word and the Word lively. How has it blessed you and those you serve?
